SPECIAL EVENTS

Resident Spotlight

Stephen Craig, PhD

Stephen Craig is a Renaissance man. From his love of literature and higher learning to his passion for motorcycles, sports cars & guitars, his interests seem endless.

A native of Caldwell, Steve Craig was educated in the public school system through high school. After acquiring an undergraduate degree from Rutgers (in US History) and a Master's degree (in Rehabilitation Counseling) from Seton Hall, he was employed by the Essex County Probation Department for over 17 years as a presentencing investigator. While there, Steve received his doctorate in Counseling Psychology from Fordham University.

His varied experience includes teaching at Seton Hall University, working at the former landmark, Greystone, and managing his private psychology practice in Roseland. His practice included the treatment of children, adolescents and adults.

In what free time he had left, Steve was an avid runner (up to 20 miles), and a life-member of the West Essex First Aid Squad (as an EMT).

Steve's quick wit, insightful observations and irreverent sense of humor make him a welcome addition to Inglemoor.

Employee Spotlight

Terrance Banks, R.N.

Merriam-Webster's definition of nursing is, in part, "advocacy in the care of individuals, families and communities."

Whether it's the individual resident, their family or the Inglemoor community as a whole, it seems that the greater good is often served by nurses.

Take Terrance Banks, for example. A 2015 graduate of Mountainside School of Nursing, Terrance brings more to work than his education. He has a positive attitude, a can-do approach and a compassion for his charges that is readily evident.

Before Terrance was a nurse, he was an illustrator, an administrative assistant, a caregiver. For a few years he lived with — and cared for — aging grandparents, so the rigors of nursing came as no surprise when he enrolled in nursing school and garnered his necessary training.

But it's his mom, too, who taught him some of life's lessons that he's carried until today.

"Remember to work as team," she told him and "always have a positive attitude."

Terrance recalls that as a child, "my mom insisted we wake up with a positive attitude ... or 'go back to bed until you do. Even today, I start my day remembering her message."

Thank your mom for us here at Inglemoor, Terrance ... it shows!
